A Few Facts About the Circus

On Thursday, May 13, Barton & Bailey's world celebrated shows will exhibit at North Platte afternoon and night. This is the largest amusement enterprise of its character in the world. Solid trains of their own double-length cars are required for the transportation of this colossal attraction. Never before have so many features been combined under one management. A complete menagerie of rare and costly wild animals from every quarter of the globe are to be seen at no extra cost. Elephants, camels, buffalos, lions, tigers, etc., and on down to the smaller bipeds and quadrupeds. An educational feature not to be overlooked.

Aerial performers who seem to defy the laws of gravity, artists whose balancing feats on the thinnest strand of wire excites comment, jugglers whose numerous feats seem impossible, riding acts, trapeze acts, in fact, acts of every kind and nature filling the three big rings and two elevated stages at all times.

Wild West riding and roping, hip-podrome races, chariot races, artillery races and other riding features too numerous to mention.

Two score clowns to amuse with their funny actions. The Katzenjammer Kids, Buster Brown, Happy Hooligan and all the other comic supplement characters are seen as well as many more. If you do not enjoy hale and hearty laughter it will be advisable for you to keep your eyes off these funny fellows.

A really wonderful free street parade, the like of which has not been seen in America, will traverse the main thoroughfares on morning of May 13 and you should seek a suitable point from which to witness this great cavalcade.

Don't forget that Barton & Bailey's world celebrated shows will exhibit one day only, afternoon and night, at North Platte, on Thursday, May 13.

Old Timer in Town

C. S. Kilmer, who has resided in the north part of the county since 1883, was in town yesterday transacting business. Mr. Kilmer says the acreage of winter wheat in Kilmer precinct is large and the present condition could not be better. Fruit trees are loaded with bloom, the grass in the pastures is fine, and altogether the farmers in that section are in good spirits over the prospects for a big crop. Last year a fair crop was grown in Kilmer precinct, one tenant farmer residing on 320 acres turning over to the owner of the land $1,600 as the one-third share of the crop. Mr. Kilmer thinks that land that will do that in a poor crop year is worth having and keeping.
